Chase

bliss.

Made to make every day count.

We live life by the rhythm of the mountains, and nothing makes us feel more alive, or more grounded, than winter's peak—when the snow seems bottomless, the friendships flow easily, and the sunlight gets a little stronger each day.

Our line of apparel is built to reflect these natural rhythms, designed with intent to bring that pursuit of bliss into every day. Whether it's the whisper of powder turns, the rhythm of a stride on the trail, crackling logs or cracking jokes—the unsung alchemy making it all happen, is the peace of wearing apparel you can trust for all of it.

Enjoy a last lap through our Winter Collection—bringing you the best of our mountain best, in pursuit of your bliss this winter.

The mountain life.

We founded Stio to create something different, for all of us mountain athletes doing what we love, every day.

Since 2011, our crew has been living, skiing, riding, designing and developing products in our hometown of Jackson, Wyoming, and in mountain-loving communities across the country. From our base in the Tetons to our retail locations nationwide, we serve the mountain life.

Our mission is simple: to make it easy for you to do more of what you love. We're obsessed with the tiny details of daily use and intimately understand the demands of fit, mobility, durability and protection.

We've thought of everything, so that you don't have to.

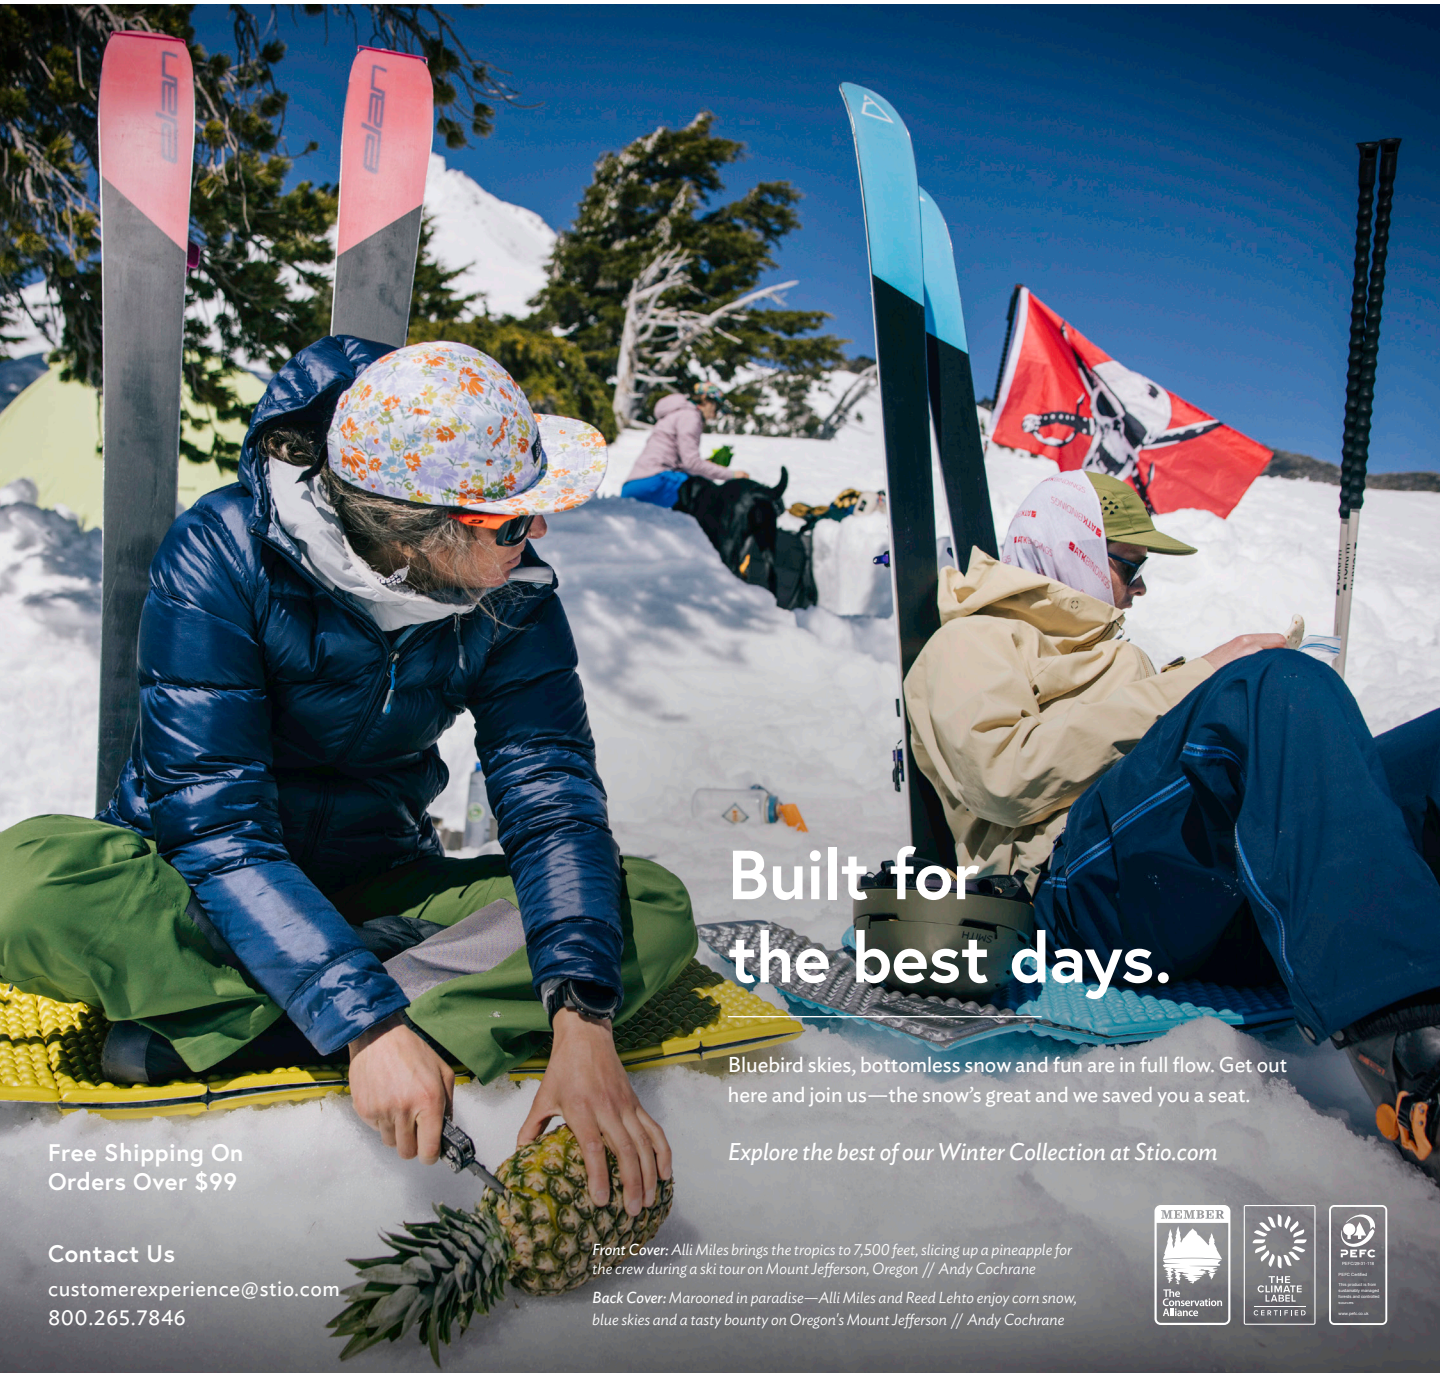

As caretakers of the mountain life, we recognize that it's our responsibility to help protect the resources that provide it. We're proud to partner with some tremendous organizations in their missions to responsibly advance outdoor recreation and protect our wild surroundings.
